

Education, Manufacturing, Building Better Career Skills Featured in Policy Committee Hearings

By State Rep Joe Emrick

BETHLEHEM - The House Republican Policy Committee is hard at work seeking solutions to top policy priorities.

Last week, the committee traveled to Allegheny County to talk about how to better attract and expand opportunities for businesses in the Commonwealth, specifically in the manufacturing sector. This week, the committee discussed how best to maximize funding to improve educational opportunities for students during a hearing at the Capitol on Monday. On Thursday, the committee was in Butler County to discuss strategies to better prepare the workforce to meet the needs of Pennsylvania employers.

More information about past hearings and those coming up is available at PAGOPPolicy.com.
