PA Chambers of Commerce Call for State Lawmakers to Fix the Child Care Teacher Shortage that is Limiting Care Options for Working Parents

Kristianna Del Grande

PA. – Employers know that dependable child care is essential to making their businesses run successfully. That's why business owners and working parents agree that solving the teacher shortage and expanding access to affordable, high-quality child care must be a top priority as lawmakers in Harrisburg finalize the state budget.

The persistent shortage of child care teachers, driven by low wages that make it difficult for providers to recruit and retain staff, is closing child care classrooms and programs across the commonwealth. The PA House of Representatives has already passed a measure to tackle the child care shortage head-on by establishing and funding a child care teacher recruitment and retention initiative to tackle this issue. At least 18 other states have adopted similar programs.

If the 3,000 unfilled child care jobs in our Commonwealth were filled, an estimated 25,000 more children could have access to quality child care. More parents could enter or stay in the workforce, contributing to their families – and the Commonwealth's – economic prosperity.

PA CHAMBER

MEMBER

WHAT

Business owners – including child care providers – and representatives from Pennsylvania chambers of commerce will call on the state legislature to pass a final budget that will address Pennsylvania's child care teacher shortage, allowing classrooms to remain open and parents to stay in the workforce.
