By Michael Ortoski

LOUISE MOORE PARK - Northampton County held its second annual festival on Saturday, October 16th at Louise Moore Park. Lamont McClure recognized a number of municipal employees and residents at an awards ceremony for the positive impact they have on the County.

"We have so many people in this County who make everyone's life better through their dedication to their job or through their volunteer work," says Lamont McClure. "It is my great privilege to recognize these citizens for their service to Northampton County."

Some of the winners were Thomas Hess for Outstanding Veteran for his continued service in many different organizations. And Chris Yarnell for his work with his organization 'Battle Borne' who helps veterans adapt to life after returning home.

Richard Weaver a Volunteer Firefighter from Washington Township for his over 30 years of service and recruiting many members of his family to join the Fire Dept.

Chef/Owner Mike Pichetto and his wife from ' Third Street and Ferry Fish Market' won outstanding business of the year. During the first months of the pandemic they opened their restaurant on their normal closed day to feed first responders.
