State Funding Will Help Ensure Easton Highline Development

By Senator Lisa Boscola

In January, I was pleased to join the City of Easton in support of the Easton Highline. Thank you to Lt. Governor Austin Davis and DCNR Secretary Cindy Dunn for their continued commitment to projects that strengthen our communities – visiting the Lehigh Valley to announce a $500,000 investment toward the acquisition of approximately 17.57 acres in Easton and West Easton Borough for development of the Easton Highline.

After a federal grant for this project was rescinded, the Shapiro-Davis Administration made the grant to ensure the revitalization work continues.

The grant is part of a nearly $82 million investment in more than 295 recreation and conservation projects across Pennsylvania.

Easton, the Greater Easton Development Partnership, and Trust for Public Land are working together to transform a long-dormant rail corridor into the Easton Highline, a public greenway including two miles of trail to reconnect the city's downtown business and residential areas with nearby natural spaces, supporting safe walking, biking, and running.

Funding will help acquire five parcels along the former railroad corridor to create Easton's third largest park. The project also will connect downtown to the Two Rivers Trail Network via the West Easton Bike Path, with future links planned to the 165-mile D&L Trail and the proposed Morris Canal Greenway in Phillipsburg, New Jersey.
