Lehigh Valley's Economy Is Driven By Movers & Makers

By Nicole Radzевич Mertz

LEHIGH VALLEY - (This article originally was published in LVEDC's Q3 2025 Commercial Real Estate Report).

The biodegradable containers that carry leftovers home after a night on the town. The medical devices that deliver life-saving fluids. The gummy worms that sweeten childhood memories.

The new factories and expansions of Ecopax, B. Braun, and Kervan are making the products that touch every corner of American life, fueling manufacturing growth that has propelled the Lehigh Valley into one the nation's top mid-sized markets and a powerhouse of American production.

The Lehigh Valley's economy has long been powered by its movers and makers
