Brown Joins Sanofi in Supporting Investment in Monroe County

By Senator Rosemary Brown

Sen. Rosemary Brown poses with interns Jessica and Caroline in her Harrisburg office, along with Kathryn from Sanofi.

This week in Harrisburg I met with Sanofi, along with my two legislative interns Jessica and Caroline, discussing their overall business and policies that may affect them.

Today, I am pleased to announce that Sanofi Swiftwater has been awarded funding that I have supported through Pennsylvania's RISE PA Grant Program from the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection, an investment that will support improvements to egg waste processing used in the manufacture of seasonal influenza vaccines.

I was proud to support Sanofi's grant application because this project represents an investment in both our local economy and our environment. The improvements will help reduce industrial emissions, enhance equipment reliability, and strengthen the long-term sustainability of the Swiftwater facility.

Sanofi has been part of the Pocono Mountains for more than a century and remains the company's largest vaccine manufacturing facility in the United States. It is a cornerstone of our regional economy, providing high-quality jobs while playing a vital role in protecting public health through vaccine production.

Investments like this help ensure the Swiftwater campus remains competitive for years to come while reinforcing its commitment to innovation and environmental stewardship. I look forward to seeing the positive impact this project will have on our community and will continue supporting initiatives that strengthen local employers, protect jobs, and encourage responsible economic growth throughout the 40th Senatorial District.
