

Humane Society

"Teisha was the clear choice for the Board because her 14 years of proven leadership, deep understanding of LVHS and unwavering commitment to animals and our community uniquely position her to lead the organization into its next chapter," said Tony Armao, Chair of the LVHS Board of Directors.

Jones brings extensive experience in nonprofit operations, animal welfare, strategic planning, community engagement, municipal partnerships, team development and organizational leadership to the CEO role. Throughout her career, she has focused on building strong, mission driven teams and developing collaborative, data-informed approaches that improve outcomes for animals while strengthening the organization's ability to serve the community.

Her leadership has touched virtually every aspect of LVHS operations, including shelter and veterinary services, animal control, human resources, facilities, customer service, adoptions, compliance, budgeting and administration. She has also helped build relationships with municipalities, law enforcement agencies, businesses, foundations, donors and community organizations throughout the region.

As CEO, Jones will oversee the Lehigh Valley Humane Society and its Community Vet Clinic while leading the organization's strategic direction, community engagement, fundraising and continued expansion of programs that support animals and the people who care for them.

Her leadership philosophy centers on compassion, collaboration, accountability and measurable impact — values she says will guide LVHS as it enters its next chapter.
