Protecting Kids from Internet Predators, AI

By State Rep. Ann Flood

I recently voted in favor of two new state laws aimed at keeping our children safe in the age of internet predators and artificial intelligence.

Act 71 of 2026 – also known as Alicia's Law – creates a dedicated state grant program to fund law enforcement task forces focused on investigating and prosecuting internet predators who target children. The law is named after Alicia Kozak, a Pittsburgh-area woman who was abducted in 2002 at age 13 by a man she met online. Thanks to her advocacy, Pennsylvania became the 14th state to enact this law.

Act 87 of 2026 requires mandated reporters of child abuse to immediately notify law enforcement when they become aware of suspected child sexual abuse material involving artificial intelligence-generated deepfake images. The legislation is intended to prevent reporting delays that can allow sexually explicit material involving children to continue circulating and additional victims to be targeted.

Act 71 takes effect immediately, while Act 87 will take effect in late January.

Fall Fishing Continues Across Pennsylvania

By State Rep. Ann Flood

With summer behind us, Pennsylvania's lakes and streams are still full of fishing and boating opportunities throughout the fall and winter. The bite is on for species including bass and catfish, and the Pennsylvania Fish and Boat Commission will stock nearly 120,000 trout in many popular lakes and streams.

Whether you're casting a line or paddling out to enjoy the season, make safety a priority. Remember, life jackets are required from Nov. 1 through April 30 on all boats less than 16 feet, including canoes, kayaks and paddleboards.
